So Tell Us about how you got into modelling?

I only started modeling to get back a bit of confidence, i was always a bit of a guy at school, didnt really discover makeup and boobies til late teens. ive never cared what others think of me so i do it for me, i love getting creative and naked so its brill!!

Describe yourself in 3 words..

unique, crazy, ninja

Whats your fave band?

My favourite band is probably NOFX! (makes me sound like a 12 year old boy) but the music makes me happy

Skateboard or BMX?

Skateboard for shiz!

If you could take one thing on a desert island
what would it
be and why?
I'd take noel fielding

What's your favourite tattoo you have?

My favourite tattoo of mine is my sleeve with my demons on it, it has a naked girl sat on a toadstool just not giving a fuck, it means most to me

What kind of style of ink do you prefer?

I love any kind of zombie tattoos like real looking half naked zombie ladies covered in blood just mmmm

Have you got a favourite film?

I don't really have a favourite film I love comedies and gore! anything that makes me laugh or squirm is a winner!

Whats your best asset?

you mean like on my body? probably my eyes

Would you change anything about yourself?

there are things about my body I would change like any woman in the world, but I say u get one life so fuck it make the most of what u have and be happy!

"Sarah Burke - the best there ever was"
Sep 3, 1982 - Jan 19, 2012

X GAMES

The 2012 Winter X Games, which ran from Jan. 26 - 29 in Aspen, turned out to be one of the most exciting ones yet.

Here are some of the most notable moments and stories from this year:

Sarah Burke Tribute

The games started with a somber note, as popular freeskier Sarah Burke tragically died on Jan. 19 from injuries sustained while training. The 29-year-old Canadian had taken the Gold in last year's SuperPipe, and would have been going for a repeat. The opening night of the Games included a candlelight vigil at the top of the SuperPipe in memory of Burke, and throughout the week her fellow athletes paid their respects anyway they could.

Queen of Snow

“One if not the best winter
Xgames on record!”

Triple Cork Madness

Friday, Jan. 27 proved to be a historic day in the Big Air. A triple cork had never been successfully landed in the Winter X Games in this event, but both Mark McMorris and Torstein Horgmo pulled one off. These amazing feats helped earn McMorris the gold and Horgmo the silver. The 18-year-old McMorris would also take first place in the Slopestyle the very next day—make sure to remember his name.

Clark Does It Again

SuperPipe virtuoso Kelly Clark once again turned in a dominating performance—complete with a frontside 1080—which gave her a fourth gold and ninth medal in the event. Explaining her consistent excellence, Clark said, “I approach every contest, every run, every trick in that moment, one run at a time.”

Snowmobiling Front Flip

In another Winter X first, Heath Frisby nailed a front flip in the Snowmobiling Best Trick. He deservedly won the event, which gives him a career total of seven medals.

No Stopping Shaun White

While many new stars were made this year, Shaun White cemented his status as a snowboarding legend. Despite suffering an ankle injury that caused him to miss the Slopestyle, White was actually able to up his performance in Sunday's SuperPipe, and became the first athlete to score a perfect 100 in the event. The historic run included an unprecedented frontside double cork 1260, along with two other 1260 tricks. White earned his fifth consecutive gold in the event, which upped his career total to 17 medals.

What Should a model really look like? Rick Genest aka Zombie boy defies the rules of personal identity and explores the dark side of modeling with his unique corpse like image.

Getting stared at is an understatement as this dude looks like something you'd find in a horror movie! We however at Teen spirit love him as it's all about self expression and body art taken to the max! Staring in Lady Gaga's Born this way, being the current face of Mugler and starring in numerous fashion runways its true to say anything is possible with self expression!

BAD GIRAFFE CLOTHING

Bad Giraffe!! I'm sure this is a commonly used phrase by zoo keepers all over the world; I'm actually pissing myself laughing right now thinking of a zoo keeper giving one giraffe into trouble for harassing another. Most of you will never have heard of the phrase never mind the name, however this is about to change! By the time you've read this article from top to toe you will know who Bad Giraffe are and you will love Teen Spirit for introducing you to such an excellent label!

Bad Giraffe was born on an average cold, wet and windy British day, when the cogs of Matt Mulholland's creative mind sprang into action and his dream of creating a clothing company that offered unique, wearable and affordable garments that everyone would want to own started to flourish. Things were slow at first as Matt worked tirelessly on creating eye-catching designs that would be worthy enough of gracing his garments and eventually after months of prepping, designing, sampling and name changing, Bad Giraffe was born!

Bad Giraffe hitting the scene bigtime!

Bad Giraffe's clothing really does stay true to their mission statement and is evident throughout their full collection. Not for the first time since I got into writing about independent clothing company's, I found myself looking at Bad Giraffe's range and thinking, I'll have that one, that one, that one, in fact just put them all in a box and send them to my house, let's hope I win the lottery. As you can see when you arrive at Bad Giraffe's site, every tee has got the giraffe situated somewhere on it, obviously, from the 'Clean Cut Flag' tee which replaces the stars on the American flag with the Bad Giraffe logo, to the 'Be Genuine' tee which features a less prominent giraffe, it's obvious the Matt wanted to include the animal in most, if not all of his designs. My favourite tee of the collection has got to be the 'Walk Tall' tee, I just love the concept behind it, with its genius type reading 'Bad Giraffe Presents, Walk Tall' and its attention to detail, and I would say this one is a staple in any t-shirt fans closet.

It's not surprising to read on Bad Giraffe's site that they've shipped to over 15 different countries worldwide and Matt still takes pride in the fact that he does everything from the designs, the site and the marketing, as he should be. With a need to further their line and make a difference in the music scene, Bad Giraffe started their own 'Bad Giraffe Family' featuring some brilliant musical talent in the form of, 'As We Climb', 'The Hype Theory', 'Call off the Search' and many more!

The question now is what does 2012 hold for Bad Giraffe? To be honest, I don't have a damn clue, but what I do know is that whatever they do release will be just as awesome as the previous if not better! One thing for sure, it'll include a giraffe whatever it may be!

You can check out the full range from Bad Giraffe Clothing at www.badgiraffeclothing.com !

The revolution has arrived..an urban revolution that is to change the streets of the UK. From high flying to incredible human inspiration. Urban Revolution is taking over.

These group of high flyers are a group of parkour fanatics who you'll see bracing the streets with there stunt attitude and insane actions. Their goal.. to better the mind and body through the use of Parkour. A physical discipline which focuses on efficient movement around obstacles in numerous ways to man!

the streets

Formed in 2007, these East midland boys have been repping the streets with there mad movements and in-spiring ways of getting from a to b. The group compiled of Ben Mason, Phil hunter, Jack Holmes and Dzuy Southam who were eager to form a

there are no limits

freerunning team and hence urban revolution was born! Their passion and love for what they did can be seen in what they do. These guys literally live, breathe and eat parkour! Training is essential for this kind of practice but why not see if you have a local parkour team in your city and Career so far: Well I'm a singer/songwriter and a model. I started singing from a young age.... too young to remember! But its all I really know, I love it. Music is my life. Modelling kind of came along with it, after doing a couple of promo photos I realised I loved being in front of the camera just as much as I loved performing. So it all kicked off from there really! I've done loads of amazing shoots, worked for tonnes of clothing brands. Recently been featured on ASOS with the awesome jewellery company A Weathered Penny (they do the most amaz-ng skulls in their range!) and I have also done a lot of work for Sinstar Clothing, they're awesome guys and I'm going to be on a tshirt coming out in their range soon :) . Still working on a solo music project so keep your eyes peeled for that soon also!

GAME ON!

Kingdoms Of Amalur: Reckoning

is an open-world action role-playing game set in Amalur, a mysterious and magical new fantasy world created by New York Times bestselling author R. A. Salvatore. Brought to life visually through the trademark style of renowned artist and Spawn creator Todd McFarlane, Reckoning brings a new level of visual style and visceral action combat to the RPG genre. The game is being developed under the leadership of Ken Rolston, lead designer of the critically acclaimed RPGs Elder Scrolls 3: Morrowind and Elder Scrolls 4: Oblivion.

Kingdoms Of Amalur: Reckoning combines intense third-person action combat with deep exploration, expansive character development and customization, and immersive storytelling in an extraordinarily detailed fantasy universe. Gamers begin their journey when they miraculously rise from the dead, wielding dangerous new magic capable of changing the very Fate of Amalur. Thrust into a brutal war between multiple races, factions, and alliances, players vie for the secrets of their immortality and the ancient evil that threatens to consume the world.

A whole new world!

WWE 12

WWE 12 will celebrate the rebirth of the iconic and authentic simulation franchise through a bigger game, badder presentation and better gameplay than ever before, delivering long-awaited critical improvements to the core gameplay experience, the most creative and extensive feature set to date and a visceral, edgy and polished presentation.

Players will become part of WWE through extensive gameplay advancements, including the brand new Breaking Point submission system, new Attributes and control layout as well as significant improvements to other key gameplay systems. WWE Universe Mode 2.0 will generate new and more impactful elements of unpredictability based on player decisions, while dynamic visual changes to gameplay presentation, including new animations, camera positions, lighting and improved rendering, will set the tone for delivering an exceptional simulation of WWE programming.

WWE 12 will feature the franchise's best-in-class creation suite, enabling players to develop and customize their own Superstars, entrances, finishing moves, storylines, Highlight Reels and other all-new capabilities. In addition, the popular Road to WrestleMania Mode will enable players to explore compelling new storylines and major gameplay improvements.

Paris in Cuffs, I'm not sure what Paris they're talking about, is it the country, you know where they wear black and white striped tops and wear strings of onions round their necks , or is it that other Paris, you know the one that was in that porno a couple of years back? To be honest the answer is irrelevant, but what is relevant is that we've got one hell of an indie label here.

Arriving on the scene in late 2011, Paris in Cuffs look to encourage the people who buy their clothing to take control of what they wear, while at the same time tailoring their designs to meet the wider audience as a whole. Their first collection was finally unleashed towards the end of 2011 and featured a selection of logo tees, as well as what can only be described as five sensational photographic print tees.

When I say photographic print tees, I quite simply mean Paris in Cuffs create a scenario, take a photo and then print it straight on to a crisp white tee. I personally own two Paris in Cuffs tees and can honestly say that I love them both, from the print which is so vibrant it seems to jump off the front of the tee, to the fit and style of the tees. The 'Irrelevant' tee is one of the ones that graces my collection and I absolutely love the angle Paris in Cuffs took on this one, that's not to say I think that everything women say is irrelevant, well maybe some of it, OK most of it!

Now in 2012, Paris in Cuffs is seriously upping the ante with their latest release as they look to cement their status as a major player in the indie fashion world. Their first drop of the New Year features the excellent 'Hades' tee which converts the phrase 'A dog is a man's best friend' or in the case a women's best friend, creating a breath-taking image that doesn't only picture this phrase but in turn says a thousand words. The drop also included a bad boy sweat named 'Pugs in Paris', or should we say bad dog sweat, ah whatever, it features the Paris in Cuffs logo with a cute little pugs face in the background of the words, creating the perfect sweat for an animal lover.

If you'd like to check out the full range from Paris in Cuffs, be sure to head over to <http://www.parisincuffs.com/> !!

When reflecting on what Paris in Cuffs have achieved in such a short space of time I've come to a realisation and this is it! If Paris in Cuffs continues to churn out timeless prints in this excellent fashion I'm sure they will become major player in the indie fashion world and with more tees scheduled for release next month, 2012 is going to be a massive year for this alternative brand, I'd bet my collection of skateboarding VHS's on it, including my original first copy of 'Flip, Sorry' !

Teen Spirit Spotlight... Thunder Apparel!

WORDS BY KRIS SANDLAN

'Let's go Thunder Wolves', I know what you're thinking, this sounds like a cheesy line from an American teen drama, you can just imagine those barely clothed cheerleaders chanting it on the touchline of a college football match! Unfortunately there are no half naked cheerleaders in this article, but I'm sure you'll find enough gorgeous girls to feed your appetite throughout the rest of the magazine.

I'm here to bring you the coolest up and coming independent clothing labels from around the globe each month and that's exactly what I'm going to do, starting with new brand on the block, Thunder Apparel.

Merely four months ago, Thunder Apparel began their foray into the independent fashion world with their first release, the awesome 'Bear Face' tee (Pictured Right) which upon release was an absolute bargain at only £8.00. A few months on and a slight price increase to cover costs this tee is still excellent value at only £10.00. Excellent value is a recurring theme that you'll see evident throughout all of Thunder Apparels tees, with the most expensive tee at the moment tipping the scale at only £12.50, ensuring this is a brand that won't ruin your bank balance, leaving you plenty of cash for the other things in life, like pizza and alcohol!

teen spirit

Due to the popularity of their first release, it wasn't long before Thunder Apparel started churning out tees at more than regular intervals, sometimes releasing tees with only a fortnight's gap. Their second and third releases, the 'Prize' tee and the 'Thunder Wolf' tee (pictured right) both feature stunning prints, with the 'Thunder Wolf' tee taking heavy influence from tattoo culture and the 'Prize Tee' featuring a bold design with plenty going on. Both these tees were the first Thunder Apparel tees that I owned and I must say it's a pleasure to have them grace my torso from time to time, that is when I can be bothered turning the washing machine on of course.

Quickly building a large following and gradually growing their reputation, Thunder Apparel were lucky enough to have the editor of Kerrang Magazine rep their tee in the 'Editors Word' section of the magazine, further boosting their profile as a t-shirt company on the rise. They then made a massive move by signing up two great bands in 'That Sunday Feeling' and 'Sulu Babylon' for endorsement with the label and in turn swore them in to the 'Thunder Family'!

A few months on and the guys have not long released their latest creations on the world in the form of the 'Pyramid' tee and the 'Ornate' tee, both of which look excellent. The 'Ornate' tee features a stunning pattern design and looks great with the red on white combo. The 'Pyramid' tee comes with what could be describe as a somewhat minimalistic look compared to Thunder Apparels other prints, however none the less, it still looks awesome.

For a relatively new company on the block, Thunder Apparel have achieved in 4 months, what most new brands would look to achieve in a year and 2012 is sure to be a massive year, with new tees set to launch in the Spring along with other garments, the sky's the limit! If you'd like to check out the full range of tees available from Thunder Apparel, make sure you head over to <http://www.thunderapparel.co.uk/> !!

The Most Controversial Games Of ALL TIME

More so than any other form of media, video games have a particularly difficult position when it comes to controversy. While violent films or TV shows merely engage viewers passively, games differ in that they give direct control over the on-screen action.

What many fail to understand is that the majority of gamers have the ability to differentiate reality from fantasy. It's for this reason that you don't see the plumb- ing industry swamped with applications from gamers who were attracted to the profession by promises of gold coins and a hot princess named Peach.

Doom ●

While Doom will forever be known as the game which popularized the first person shooter, it was just as ground- breaking for its gore. For many it remains one of the earliest instances of being both impressed and sickened by such a high level of violence in a video game. I must have been about 8 years old when I first saw Doom in action – the hellish world and its bloody and gruesome visuals were a tad different from Sonic The Hedgehog.

Thrill kill

The only game on this list that wasn't even actually released, Thrill Kill caused so much controversy that it was canned by scared publishers EA at the last minute. A four player fighting game, Thrill Kill was set in the depths of hell and focused on a series of depraved characters with an emphasis on graphic and sexualized violence. Characters include a cattle prod wielding dominatrix named Belladonna and Cleetus – a tapeworm infected redneck.

Thrill kill

BMX XXX ●

After successfully managing to replicate the fun of the Tony Hawks Pro Skater series with two enjoyable Dave Mirra BMX titles, publisher Acclaim decided to go in a slightly different direction with the third entry of the series – presumably coming to the conclusion that there was a severe lack of tits.

GTA: San Andreas

Grand Theft Auto remains the number one video game series synonymous with controversy. So much so that it's almost impossible to pinpoint a single entry. Every game in the series has been subject to media condemnation of some sort – from Vice City's depiction of Hispanic gangs to GTA IV's drink driving mini-game. The series has also been used frequently as either a scapegoat, being blamed for real-life murder and theft - cited in a number of trials and court cases, as well as tabloid headlines.

Bully

Rockstar's superb open-world school sim garnered controversy more for its title than its relatively inoffensive content. Taking control of frequently expelled rapschallion Jimmy Hopkins, the game unleashes players in Bullworth academy – a hard edged boarding school where only the strongest survive.

COD: Modern Warfare 2

Activision managed to garner themselves a considerable amount of unnecessary controversy in 2009 with the infamous 'No Russian' level featured in Modern Warfare 2's campaign. Touted as a thought provoking look at terrorism through the eyes of its perpetrators by Infinity Ward, it didn't stop many from seeing it as an attempt to purposefully hit the Rockstar make this list for the third and final time with the dark, sordid and depressing Manhunt. Playing as a death row convict, the game sees you entrapped in a city overrun by convicts and murderous gangs inspired by those in the film The Warriors. Escaping requires sticking to the shadows and executing your enemies as gruesomely as possible.

Manhunt

Postal 2

Bringing out the repressed psychopath in all of us, Postal 2 was the first game with the ability to piss on people and to use a cat as a makeshift gun silencer. Carrying out a series of mundane tasks including queuing at the bank and buying groceries, the game can be completed without harming a single person.... But where's the fun

MODERN WARFARE 3

MODERN WARFARE 3: THE WORST WAYS TO DIE

This is an article aimed at all my fellow Modern Warfare 3 players out there, because after having a session of 8 or so games in which I successfully demonstrated the very definition of FAIL, I was feeling a little like Gerald Butler when that Persian guy claims Sparta will burn to the ground: ready to find the nearest living thing and beat its face in, or kick it down a huge well. Have you ever been so frustrated you just wanted to drop kick a kitten? Ok well maybe it wasn't that bad, and after a whole night of unending, non-stop getting shot in the back, instead of opening a can of Sparta on something's face I figured maybe I could share the methods of digitally dying that exponentially increase most of our profanity levels and drive us absolutely insane.

Marathon Frustration

The "get spawned in the very corner of the map and spend 45 seconds sprinting to the other side towards the sound of gunfire only to get there and immediately get shot by the one random guy who's just sitting behind a door" death.

Sneaky Bastards

The "stare at a doorway or corner for like 40 seconds straight before quickly glancing the other way only to instantly have a guy round that corner and shoot you square in the back" death. Frustration. City.

Foolish Reloading

The "shoot 3 guys in a row, decide it's safe to reload, hit the reload button, and have a guy round a corner literally 2 milliseconds after you hit the button" death.

Revenge Is A Dish Best Served Dead

Also in hardcore, the "one sniper guy who has perfect camouflage and can shoot you from across the map without you even knowing you were being shot at and because you keep trying to see him you

Boobies

Any lethal object that's been placed on the ground with malicious intent, namely the bouncing betty, the IMF, and the friggin claymore. Don't you love that eternity of time between the moment when you hear that first "CLICK" and the moment when you realize you have absolutely zero options for somehow avoiding it and just wearing it like a champ? I don't.

Death From Above

Two words. Stealth. Bomber. Somehow those only get called in when I'm completely in the open and have no chance of hiding. Every time.

Stealth Error

Anytime you try to get cocky when you sneak up on someone and either knife them in the back or go for a headshot or something, and they somehow accidentally avoid it and shoot you full of holes. That's always a good moment to think about just quitting.

Hell Spawn

One thing that always makes me at least think about throwing my controller through the nearest window is the Free For All "spawn and have a guy spawn in the exact same spot half a second later so he can knife you in the back" death. It's fun when your guy number 2. It's not fun when you're number 1.

Bendy Bullets

The "see a guy shoot at you and run completely around a corner before somehow getting shot, AROUND THE CORNER, by the guy you just ran away from" death. Figure it out Call of Duty. Don't give me false hope and then shatter it like that.

Superhuman Gunner

For me personally, the most irritating, infuriating death comes when you have one of those guys who run around with akimbo FMG9's. Somehow MW3 decided it would be a good idea to throw any hint at reality way out the window and make those things absurdly accurate, fast, and lethal. I'm sorry MW3, but when a guy is shooting 2 guns at the same time, from the hip, at a full run, from 80 yards away, he'd be lucky to hit a freakin cow, let alone square me up WITH THE FIRST THREE SHOTS!!! FPSRussia and Chuck Norris are the only 2 humans capable of such feats. Period.

10 MOST ICONIC IMAGES IN HORROR MOVIE HISTORY

The horror genre has been one of the most popular with cinemagoers since projectors first started rolling films. Over the past century, huge volumes of memorable and impressive horror films have adorned our screens and as such horror villains and their character victims and settings/locations have often become implanted within popular culture, transcending the boundaries of the cinema screen to become familiar to those who haven't even seen the films in question.

The following are what we consider to be the 10 most iconic of these images... those moments in horror cinema that have been ingrained in our soul and he have come to know as the 10 defining moments of horror.

10. HELLRAISER (1987)

Clive Barker's Hellraiser series and lead character Pinhead are undisputed icons of British horror. This grotesque and freakish image of the devilish character actually scared me so much as a child back in the 90s that the poster alone was enough to give me nightmares for a week!

09. A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET (1984)

Although Robert Englund's horror villain, Freddy Krueger, eventually became more of a comic character – even a parody of the typical evil pariah's in such horror films – at the very beginning he was an extremely unsettling and horrific character. The hideous scaring from being burned alive makes Krueger grotesquely horrific, his vile charred face something many viewers probably did see in their nightmares

08. HALLOWEEN (1978)

One of horror cinemas most terrifying villains, this image of Michael Myers still sends shivers down my spine. The cold, expressionless face on the white mask makes the super-villain look even more horrific and grotesque, whilst the inability to see his eyes gives him an eerie, inhuman quality.

07. SCARS OF DRACULA (1970)

Arguably in England, Christopher Lee's image of Dracula is more notorious and iconic than that of Bela Lugosi's. Lee played the character in a series of films for Britain's Hammer Productions, whilst Lugosi only donned the cape once for Universal's classic adaptation.

06. NOSFERATU (1922)

The terrifying image of Count Orlok in the 1922 classic silent horror film, Nosferatu, needs to be nothing more than a shadow on a wall. Managing to induce sheer dread for audiences in only his shadow form, the distinctively deformed silhouette of the vampiric Count is the stuff of nightmares.

05. AN AMERICAN WEREWOLF IN LONDON (1981)

If the original 1940s Wolf Man film is merely humorous today, An American Werewolf in London is quite simply grotesque and disgusting. The graphic transformation sequence is truly the stuff of nightmares, but the impressive special effects have made this image one of the most iconic within the horror genre.

04. THE EXORCIST (1973)

This hideous image is definitely one of the most easily identifiable in horror film history. The demonic eyes, scarred complexion and rotting teeth immediately scream of possession and it's obvious that the image comes from the seminal film on the matter, The Exorcist. The image is incredibly grotesque and rather chilling, but it's the almost hypnotic quality of the eyes that makes it so disturbing.

03. THE SHINING (1980)

I'd like to propose that without this sequence Stanley Kubrick's The Shining would not have become the legendary masterpiece of horror that it is widely regarded as being today. Many of you will disagree I'm sure, but the notorious moment where Jack Nicholson hacks through the door is undeniably the most iconic part of the film.

02. PSYCHO (1960)

Janet Leigh's Psycho scream shot is literally everywhere! As horror images go, it's one of the most memorable and long lasting cinema has ever produced. Instantly recognisable, fans of the genre – and cinema as a whole, alike – know exactly who this is and what the image is from.

01. FRANKENSTEIN (1931)

Known the world over and immediately identifiable for virtually anybody who's ever heard of the word horror, Boris Karloff's classic portrait of the monster is as much ingrained within popular culture as Janet Leigh's scream. From the flat head, through the bolts in the neck, right down to the bulky footwear, Karloff created a character that remains well known and easily identifiable 80 years later.

How did you get into modeling?

I got into modeling after a friend of mine said i had what it took to be a model, at first i wasnt too sure but then after i thought what do i have to lose and sighed up for a few agencies and tried to get published :)

Who were your idols/ Inspirations?

I really think kelly brook is gorgeous, also holly peers is stunning too and are very successfull models with a beautiful figure and they have come a long way so hopefully one day i will be as successfull as them :)

Best Shoot upto date?

I think all my shoots have been awesome, and i enjoy all of them but i really enjoyed my latest shoot with gms, girl next door style as ive been told thats the best sort of shoot that suits me and comes very naturally, whats never a bad thing :)

If you had to take 3 things on a desert island what 3 thing?

I would take my camera so i could also snap out there, my fav perfume, and some nice lingerie
Why? My camera in case i get bored i can take some snaps, perfume so i always smell good , and lingerie to stay looking sexy lmao

What would be your dream job?

Working for the vampire diaries lol , nope only kidding what im doing now i love, my glamour modeling my family to help them out if they needed it :)

What are your best assets?

I would have to say my eyes , and my bum :P

Your favourite band?

I would have to say 3 doors down is one of my fav bands, but there are way to many good bands out there i love lol

SCIENTISTS
DISCOVER WORLD'S SMALLEST CHAMELEON IN MADAGASCAR

With the ability to change skin colour to blend in with their surroundings, chameleons are the masters at avoiding detection and can be difficult to spot at the best of times. This one in particular, though, as it's the world's smallest

This specialist of the species is smaller than the width of a fingernail, and could reasonably be likened to finding a needle in a hay stack.

Eagle-eyed scientists visiting the small island of Madagascar, just off the coast of Africa, rose to challenge admirably after discovering what is believed to be the world's smallest chameleon. The minute lizard, found on one of the country's smaller peripheral islands, measures just 29mm and can stand comfortably on the tip of a matchstick.

E TREE: WORLD'S MOST

Most sci-fi fans thought Steven Spielberg's ET phoned home back in 1982, but now the alien has been discovered in a tree in Essex.

Shoe repairer Matt Smith was walking in Danbury Country Park when he spotted the extra-terrestrial's round face marked in one of the tree's strangely formed knots.

DINER SUFFERS HEART ATTACK TUCKING INTO
6,000 CALORIE
TRIPLE BYPASS BURGER

An American diner had to be rushed to hospital after suffering a cardiac arrest while eating a 6,000 calorie 'burger to die for' at the Heart Attack Grill.

The unidentified man was half-way through his mega-meal when he began suffering chest pains at the restaurant chain's Las Vegas branch.

Paramedics rushed to the scene and stretchered out the customer, believed to be in his 40s, into an assisting ambulance. The infamous diner, which uses the phrase- 'A taste worth dying for'- has previously come under criticism in the US for its irresponsible promotion of unhealthy eating.
